Location:

Banyalbufar is a picturesque village on the west coast of Mallorca, nestled in the dramatic landscape of the Serra de Tramuntana, a UNESCO World Heritage Site. It is located around 25 kilometers northwest of Palma de Mallorca. The village is known for its steep terraced fields, which were once used for wine growing, and its breathtaking views of the Mediterranean. Banyalbufar offers a quiet, traditional atmosphere with narrow streets, historic buildings and charming cafés. The coastline is characterized by small coves and crystal clear waters that can be reached on foot. The region is ideal for hiking and cycling, thanks to the surrounding mountains and picturesque trails.
